Persistently late people can be frustrating and __11__ to anyone stuck waiting for them. One main explanation for their behavior is __12__ simple, psychologists say: People simply underestimate how long a task will take.

That's a little known concept called the planning fallacy, which is a strong tendency to __13__ underestimate task completion. The planning fallacy is one of the most difficult patterns to change, experts say.

"This is a judgment that you'd think that people would be motivated to get right," said Justin Kruger, a social psychologist and professor in the marketing department at NYT's Stern School of Business. "There are all sorts of __14__ and punishments for being late, and the __15__ is we're late even when those punishments and consequences exist."

In a high-risk diplomatic offensive, the Greek government is seeking to roll back the tough __16__ measures imposed by its massive bailout during the European debt crisis, presenting a direct challenge to the leader considered its chief architect – Angela Merkel, the German chancellor. New Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras, 40, and his social-media-__17__ finance minister are instead selling a deal that includes more spending and is winning early support from the Elysee Palace to the White House.

The Greeks, over the past two days, have backed away from earlier calls for large-scale debt forgiveness. But the Germans remain __18__, __19__ the single biggest obstacle to any gentler rescue package for a country where __20__ cuts tied to its $240 billion bailout increased the rates of poverty and unemployment amid a six-year depression.

The death toll in the crash of TransAsia Airways Flight GE235 rose to 31 on Thursday morning as rescue crews cleared the mostly sunken fuselage in the Keelung River. Teams in rubber rafts clustered around the wreckage, several dozen yards from the shore. Taiwan's Civil Aeronautics Administration said 31 people were confirmed dead, 15 were rescued with injuries and 12 were still missing. It said two people on the ground were hurt.

The French-Italian-built ATR 72-600 prop aircraft pivoted onto its side with one wing scraping past National Freeway No. 1 just before it plunged into the river, local television images showed. The plane's wing hit a taxi on the freeway, and the driver and a passenger were injured, TransAsia director Peter Chen said.

Another ATR 72 operated by the same Taipei-based airline crashed in the outlying Taiwan-controlled islands of Penghu last July 23, killing 48 at the end of a typhoon for reasons that are still under investigation. (excerpted from FoxNew.com)
